Dèjeuner-atelier : Bulletin canadien d’histoire de la médecine/Canadian Bulletin of Medical History : nouvelles idées, nouvelles directions

Chair/Présidence: Peter Warren

The Society invites members and other interested parties to participate in a brainstorming workshop about the future of the Bulletin. What changes would you like to see in the Bulletin? If you are a new researcher or graduate student, what would you like to know about submitting publishable manuscripts and the evaluation and revision processes? Would you like to participate on the Advisory Board, as an Editor, as the Guest Editor of a Special Issue, or on the web version of the Bulletin? What ideas do you have for increasing Francophone participation?

Changes to SSHRC's Journals programme will emphasize on-line (or open) dissemination of scholarly activity. The Bulletin's web version has been a standard bearer in this initiative, but more is possible. Have you ideas about a more interactive website? Be part of the evolution of our fine publication.

La Société invite les membres et autres parties intéressées à prendre part à un atelier de réflexion ayant pour thème l'avenir du Bulletin. Quels changements devrions-nous apporter au Bulletin? À titre de jeune chercheur ou d'étudiant récemment diplômé, avez-vous des questions au sujet de la soumission d'articles ou de notre processus d'évaluation et de révision? Aimerez-vous faire partie du conseil consultatif, participer à la direction de la revue, en diriger un numéro, ou contribuer à la version électronique du Bulletin? Avez-vous des suggestions pour accroître la participation francophone?

Les changements apportés au programme d'aide aux revues du CRSH mettront l'accent sur la publication en ligne (ou offerte gratuitement) des travaux d'érudition. La version électronique de la revue a été exemplaire à cet égard, mais on peut aller plus loin. Par exemple, comment pourrait-on rendre notre site Web plus interactif? N'hésitez pas à contribuer à l'évolution de notre excellente revue.
